Tutoring
Programme

Tailored tutoring delivered by expert, specialist teachers, brought to you as part of the National Tutoring Programme

Specialist support, wherever it is needed

➤ The Professional Tutoring Partnership is proud to join the nationwide effort to support schools and teachers in giving students who may have fallen behind during the lockdown the tools to get back on track. We have specialist tutors available nationwide, in person and online.

Gold-standard tutoring, budget-friendly costs

➤ We, and the DfE, know that schools budgets are being challenged as they have rarely been. That is why all tutoring delivered by the Professional Tutoring Partnership, and all the other organisations involved in the National Tutoring Programme, are heavily subsidised, meaning schools only have to fund 25% of the costs.

Unique circumstances, unprecedented collaboration

➤ We recognise the current situation is unparalleled. That is what has driven us to create a national coalition of all our collective specialist teachers from Dyslexia Guild, PATOSS, the British Dyslexia Association and Helen Arkell.

What makes people work with the Professional Tutoring Partnership?

Highly qualified, specialist tutors.

There are many outstanding tutors and tutoring organisations in the UK, but only the Professional Tutoring Partnership solely employs specialist teachers expert in supporting literacy and numeracy difficulties, meaning you can have full confidence in the support each child receives.

Tailored tuition.

No two children are alike, so why should their support be the same? Using a wealth of experience, our tutors will craft support plans uniquely tailored to each child's needs and aims helping them gain in confidence, allowing them to achieve their full potential.

Evidence-informed approach.

Our tutors aren't selected because they are experts in teaching subjects, but in teaching children how to learn. Our metacognitive approach is based upon the most rigorous and up-to-date scientific evidence, giving you the reassurance that we don't hope our approach works - we know it does, and for all children.

Who comprises the Professional Tutoring Partnership?

The Professional Tutoring Partnership is a collective endeavour, formed of all of the UK's leading specialist teacher professional bodies, two charities and is led by one of the world's leading inclusive educational training companies.

This partnership is an unprecedented collaboration across the SpLD sector, to bring the highest standard of specialist tutoring and support available to children, schools and parents across the UK.

Patoss is the non-profit professional association of teachers of students with specific learning difficulties (SpLD), for all those concerned with SpLD, for example: dyslexia, dyscalculia, ADHD.
